When the seniors first stepped through the door many years ago, each probably asked himself, "What am I going to learn here?" Now, looking back, he realizes that he has gained knowledge and skills and has formed many lasting friendships as he progressed from where he was to where he is.

At NHHS there are many opportunities for each student to participate in athletics, in different organizations, and in various other interesting groups.

Now he is aware that our school is providing him not only the foundation necessary for graduation, but also is helping in leading the way toward vocational and career opportunities.

is exhibited in many ways

The classrooms are scenes of a variety of activities ranging from art development to lecture and note-taking routines to the use of audio-visual equipment.

Individual presentations and discussion groups give each student the opportunity to express himself and help him relate his course work with his own personal experiences and, too, workouts in a well-organized gym help students develop their ability as they gain team spirit.

All of these experiences and activities help the student gain youth power.

He has achieved a social and personal development that helps him look forward to his future in college, on the job, or as a responsible person in his community.

ADMINISTRATION

Harold D. Smith, Superintendent

We strive to build youth power in our community through teaching, study, counseling and interchanging thoughts concerning the issues of education.

Our school also presents varied programs and special services throughout the year.

Superintendent Smith shares the hope that through such studies and activities our students will gain the knowledge necessary for world understanding.

... these are busy days.

A day in the elementary department finds many responsible people working closely with students to help them fulfill individual needs. These people have a real interest in each student and they are willing to help at every stage of the student's development. This personal interest not only helps each student to become acquainted as soon as he enters school, but continues to give the opportunity for individual learning experiences as he progresses.

Mrs. Henry, Elementary Principal, joins in a parent-teacher conference with Mrs. Hult.

Both the Shamrock and the Cloverleaf have the responsibility of informing members of the school community and other interested persons concerning what's happening at North Harrison.

More hours than most people realize are spent by hard-working staff members who are willing to expend their time and talents for the school.

It is the desire of staff members that their efforts are appreciated by all those who read the yearbook and newspaper-- North Harrison students and faculty, parents, friends, area professional business men, and future students.

Mrs. Woodhull is explaining the 1971-1972 yearbook to Lisa Treloar, Lillian Miller, Lisa South, and Pam Perkins.

How are you going to vote? Since March, 1972, is the time for Presidential primaries, students at N.H.H.S. are conducting a student poll in mid-February. No, we're not going to make a fearless prediction at this time.

Julie Heyle and David Richardson, crown bearers, execute everybody's ideas as they practice for Homecoming ceremonies.

Scouting around for ideas...

The junior English class tries out various ideas to perfect their spring play. Peggy and Susan act out one good suggestion here.

Well, it was your idea!!

Fans begin to have big ideas about our SHAMROCKS going to State!

Sue, Julie and Cynthia gave these Kindergarteners a "snack" lesson.

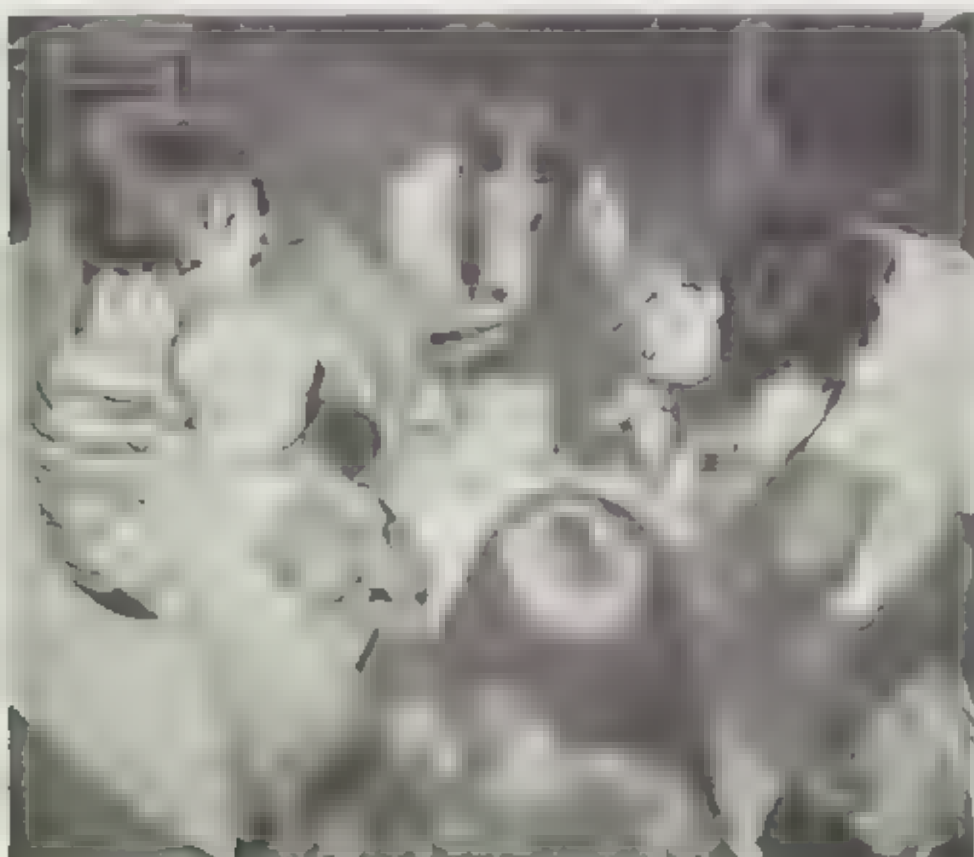

Kym and the Parkhurst twins. Double trouble, double joy! Mommy Mommy too (two?)!

Sometimes entertaining preschoolers is a real problem. Becky tries!

Sophomores find "first-hand" study of child care interesting and fun.

Learning to renovate breakfast chairs was challenging and, at times, exasperating.

An educational bulletin board helps these sophomores get ready to give a lesson about nutrition to second graders.

Shamrocks enjoy themselves!

Who would ever believe clowning Terri would make such a majestic entry as Homecoming Queen just minutes later?

Shamrock fans are enthusiastic admirers of this year's team, and why not?

Oops! Is the librarian approaching?

It takes a heap of selling to raise money for a super Junior-Senior banquet.

Team members Duane Long, Everett Arnold, Gary Bird, Rod McDowell, Earl Lockeridge, Larry Parman, Bill Heyle and Jim McKelvey, play a powerfully good game against the KQ-TV Court Jesters on this fun-packed evening.

High School faculty and faculty wives Joyce Smith, Nadene Parman, Yvonna Arnold, Veta Gilpatrick, Sonja Selby, Barbara Coulson, Marilyn Henry, Jane Smith, and Paula Long, calling themselves the Out of Shape Shamrocks, defeated the Element by a very narrow margin.

Shades of night! Part of the Element's volleyball squad, Sandy Heyle, Gladys Parkhurst, Jean Hult, Marilyn Beeks, Marilyn Henry, Barbara Coulson and Lib Cook, seem to be a bit confused at the moment. Just seconds later, one wobbly team member is carried off the court in a "stretcher".

*We proved we're not the
"out of shape
Shamrocks," after all.*

Highschool cheerleaders Ann Mossburg, Martha Woollums and Doris Groom scan a new cheer while Mrs. Henson, weary after a grueling game, changes to comfortable boots. Could it be referee Daryld Pottorff has a heckler on the far end of the court?

Referee Brent Elliot seems to have called an unpopular one!

ALMA MATER

Raise a song for Alma Mater,
Let the echoes mount and ring
With our voices now united.
Alma Mater's praise we sing.

As we fight to gain the victory
In one cause we all unite,
To defend the matchless glory
Of the Shamrock's green and white

Alma Mater tho' we leave thee
Still the mem'ries linger on,
Of our happy days together
And Alma Mater's song.

Of the comradeship we treasured
As our hearts in praise unite,
To the glory past all measure
Of the Shamrock's green and white.

Placing books in the stacks at the end of the quarter is a time-consuming task.

Shamrocks pause to reflect for a bit--of the winning basketball teams, of the friendships, and of the encouragement of many people.

Journalism students who produced the Shamrock reflect on the helpfulness of instructors, photographers and printers as they worked toward producing a more representative yearbook.

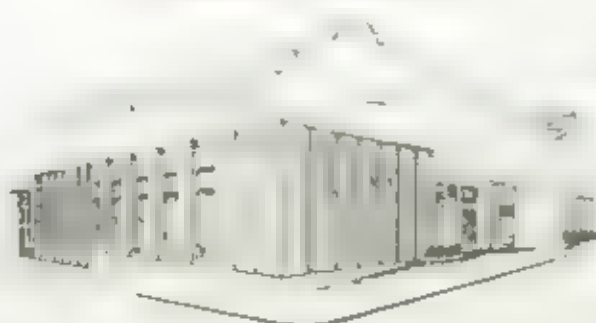

With the help of the entire student body, we learned to work together more effectively and to appreciate more fully the value of YOUTH POWER.

Fans enjoy the teamwork of the winning SHAMROCKS.
